

NEWSPAPERS.

There are four newspapers published in the colony, namely, the Register and New Era on Tuesdays; the Observer on Saturdays; and the Times on Saturdays—all weekly.

The Register was started in 1814 by Mr. Henry Loving, and published for many years after by Loving and Hill. It has since been in various hands, and is now owned and conducted by Mr. Angus Macmillan, by whom it was purchased in 1873.

The Observer, established by a company in 1843, was first edited by Dr. Thomas Fergusson, now dead. The editorial chair has been from time to time filled by various persons; but since 1861 the paper has become the property of Mr. W. T. Regan, by whom for many years it has been edited.

The Times owes its birth to the late Mr. Fred. S. Jewett, an American, by whom it was started in 1851. In 1853 it was purchased by Mr. Paul Horsford, since whose death it has passed into the hands of Messrs. Macmillan and J. H. Hill, the present editors.

AGRICULTURE, SUGAR MANUFACTURE, &c.

Sugar being the staple production of Antigua, the cultivation of the sugar-cane, yielding its triple tribute of sugar, molasses, and rum, mainly engages the attention of the agriculturist. The soil being rich and tenacious, is peculiarly adapted for it, and the plant lives and thrives even under the most adverse circumstances. For a great many years after the admission of foreign slave-grown sugar on equal terms with British free labour, this, with all the other British West India Colonies, became seriously depressed, causing for a time diminished production, and in some instances leading to the ruin of the old proprietors. Still Antigua has wonderfully maintained her position as a sugar-producing country; and although we can count fully forty estates that were highly productive in the days of slavery, thrown out of cultivation for several years passed, yet, from the greatly improved agriculture rendering the land more productive, the average crops, if not altogether equal to what they were, have but slightly diminished. With no correct statistics, and no means of accurately ascertaining the weights of the sugar shipped for the years antecedent to the last fifteen, when 1,600 lbs. was the ordinary weight of a hogshead, so as to compare with present shipments of hogsheads averaging from 16 to 18 cwt., it is impossible rightly to determine to what extent, if any, production has diminished; whilst the opinion is held by many that we have to complain less of diminished quantity than of reduced value, which, owing to a variety of causes, has been the case even anterior to the period referred to.

The introduction of the steam plough—the first of which was imported by Messrs. F. and G. Garraway in 1863, has, from the thorough completeness with which it delves and turns up the stiff soil to a greater depth than could otherwise be done, conferred advantages that cannot be over-estimated. By its aid lands are being fast reclaimed and brought into fresh cultivation which have long lain waste; and it is not too much to say, that had this wonder-working implement, which has already done so much to regenerate the soil, been in existence fifteen years ago, estates now abandoned would never have been out of cultivation. The average sugar crop for the last fifteen years has been about 12,000 hogsheads, during which period the island has suffered at intervals severely from drought. But such is the confidence in the capabilities of the soil, and the firm faith evinced in the future of Antigua, that property is being materially enhanced in value, additional capital is being invested, steam works are taking the place of the antiquated windmills, and improved implements of every kind are being brought into use to economise labour, to extend the area of production, and to improve cultivation and manufacture. To this must be added a far more generous use of chemical and other manures, and the complement is the reduction of the sugar duties by Mr. Lowe—a measure of vital importance, and of which the benefits will become more apparent day by day. Amongst the changes must be mentioned the “concretor,” the ingenious invention of Mr. Fryer, of Manchester, and of which the chief merit consists in the saving of drainage.

The invention, which has been for four years in operation on the Belvedere Estates, has evidently been successful, as Mr. Fryer has added Bath Lodge to his extensive domain. The enterprise has now expanded into a company.

The cultivation of cotton—in the early history of the island an important article of export—was, during the cotton famine in Europe, revived, and, although the soil and climate are exceedingly favourable to its growth, yet the fall in price consequent on the increasing cultivation throughout the world has led to its almost entire abandonment, and the lands have been replaced in sugar.

LAND TAX.

Land Tax, for Ecclesiastical purposes, called parish tax, 1s. per acre on cultivated, and 4d. on uncultivated land, and one per cent.

on rental of houses. This tax to be reduced as livings fall in, until the minimum is reached, viz., 6d. on cultivated, and 3d. on uncultivated land. Formerly this tax was levied in each parish, by a vestry elected by the ratepayers, and who fixed at such rate as would meet the current expenditure, viz., the rector's salary, the salaries of the parochial officers, and repairs of the church building, &c. Now the amount is uniform over the island, and will cease as a church tax when the present incumbents of parishes die out or resign their livings. After that there will be a land tax of 6d. per acre on cultivated, and 3d. per acre on uncultivated land, to be paid into the treasury in aid of the general revenue. Since the Anglican Church was disestablished, in 1874, two livings have become vacant. The present incumbents receive nothing from the Treasury.

WATER TAX.

Four per cent. on rental of all houses in the city, and within one mile thereof, not under £5 per year.

WHEEL TAX.

On all carriages, gigs, &c., 6s. per wheel, each year.

On all carts and vehicles kept for hire, 6s. per wheel, a year.

PILOTAGE INWARDS.

Under 6 feet, £1 8s.; 6 feet, £1 4s.; 9 feet, £1 10s.; 10 feet, £1 16s.; and for every foot beyond, 6s. per foot. All vessels drawing an intermediate six inches or under, are included in the previous draught. Beyond six inches count for a foot. From over the bar into the harbour, after discharging part of cargo, £1 8s.

DISTANCE MONEY.

North Side—Green Island, bearing south, £1 12s.; Great Bird Island, south-west, £1; before passing the Horse Shoe, 12s. South Side—Green Island, north, £1 12s.; Indian Creek, north, £1; Old Road Bluff, 12s. The above to apply to all vessels drawing above 11 feet of water; under that rate half distance money.

LIMITS.

No vessel bound to St. John's shall be liable to the payment of pilotage, unless the pilot shall have offered his services before the vessel, if coming from the northward, shall have got within Boon's Point, and have passed the North Reef; or, if coming from the southward, shall have got within the Nine-foot Bank; and if coming from the westward shall have passed Sandy Island; and if bound to Parham, before she shall have passed the east end of Great Bird Island.

Outward pilotage to be three-fourths of inward.

From roadstead to sea, £1 8s.

CHRONOLOGICAL HISTORY OF ANTIGUA.

Antigua was discovered by Christopher Columbus in his second voyage, in 1493, and named by him from a church in Seville, Santa Maria de la Antigua. It is one of the oldest of the British colonies in the Antilles, having been settled by Sir Thomas Warner, with a few English families, in 1632. The early settlers were much harassed, and the colony almost desolated, by the frequent incursions of the French and Caribs. By the Treaty of Breda, in 1667, the island was finally settled under the British dominion, and in the beginning of the following year the colony was re-established by Lord Willoughby de Parham, from whom the town of Parham, which was originally the metropolis of the island, took its name, as also Willoughby Bay. This nobleman obtained a grant from Charles II., in 1663, and brought with him Colonel Byam and other officers, who had impaired their fortunes in the Royal cause, to whom his lordship made large grants.

ANGUILLA.

The island of Anguilla is placed under the Presidency of St. Christopher, being governed locally by a stipendiary magistrate, paid from the Imperial treasury. This officer is assisted by a vestry, of which he is chairman. The vestry is composed of the stipendiary magistrate, three elected members, and three nominated by the Crown.

The revenue of Anguilla may be estimated at £555, and the expenditure at about the same amount. The local courts for the administration of justice are the magistrate's court and the small debt court. But the island is also within the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the Leeward Islands.

Anguilla is about sixty miles N.W. of St. Christopher, and is sixteen miles in length, and varies in breadth from three to one and a half miles, containing an area of thirty-five square miles.

The island is extremely healthy, and the population is computed at 2,500, of whom 100 are white (or of pure European descent), and the remainder coloured or black.

Besides cattle, ponies, and garden stock, which last meets with a ready sale at St. Thomas, the productions are phosphate of lime and salt. In the latter commodities the trade is decidedly on the increase. The revenue is derived from import duties, a duty on salt, a tax upon houses and lands, licences, &c.

PRESIDING MAGISTRATE.—J. L. Lake, £200.

DOMINICA

LOCAL NOTES.

DOMINICA is an island, situated in the centre of the Caribbean Sea, between 15d 39m and 15d 45m. N. Lat. and 61d 13m. and 67d. 30m. W. Long., 29 miles long, 16 broad—very mountainous and picturesque. It was discovered by Christopher Columbus, on Sunday (hence its name), the 3rd November, 1493, on his second voyage.

This island was included in the grant made of sundry islands in the Caribbean Sea, to the Earl of Carlisle, by a patent, dated 2nd June 1697; but several attempts to bring the place under subjection to the English proved abortive. By the treaty signed at Aix-la-Chapelle, in Prussia, in 1748, it was stipulated between the English and French that Dominica and some other islands should remain neutral, and that the original proprietors, the Charalib, should be left in possession. During the time that Dominica was thus professedly regarded by the English and by the French as a "neutral" island (no notice being taken of the Charalib), many French planters settled on it and established plantations. In 1756 Dominica became by conquest the property of the English.

In 1763 "a peace" was signed at Paris between England and France, in the ninth article of which Dominica was assigned to Great Britain. Commissioners were sent out for the purpose of surveying and selling the culturable lands, which yielded to the British Crown the sum of £312,091 11s 1d. sterling. The French settlers were generously secured in their possessions, on condition of taking the oath of allegiance and paying a small quit-rent. Dominica at this time formed one of the General Government, comprising, besides Grenada and the Grenadines, St. Vincent and Tobago.

In 1771 the island was formed into a separate Government, under the administration of Sir William Young, Bart. On the 21st June, 1775, a Royal Proclamation establishing a House of Representatives, fixing a new qualification for candidates and electors, and regulating the proceedings at elections.

In 1778 the French, attracted by the fertility of the place, and invited over from Martinique by some of their countrymen, prepared a military and naval armament against the island under the Marquis de Bouillé, Governor of Martinique, and became masters of this island on the 7th of September, after an obstinate resistance. The cruel Marquis Duchilleau was left as Governor, trade failed, and great distress followed.

In 1783 the island was again restored to the English, and Sir John Orde, Bart., was appointed Governor.

In 1795 another invasion of the island was attempted, under the direction of Victor Hugues, the French Republican Chief, who had previously forced the British troops to evacuate Guadaloupe. The brave and well-directed resistance of the inhabitants, under the command of Governor Hamilton, forced part of the enemy to fly, and the rest to surrender.

In 1805, which is the most remarkable epoch used amongst us for marking the date of events, and which goes by the designation of La Grange (the name of the invading General), the French landed at each flank of Roseau. The regular troops (4000 reg.) and the militia gallantly distinguished themselves; but unfortunately Roseau, the capital, was set on fire accidentally, and therefore capitulated, paying the enemy to quit £1,200, whilst the Governor, Sir George Prevost, and the troops (regular and militia) proceeded across the island to the superior garrison of Prince Rupert's, making ready for battle, should they be attacked. Since this period the island has not known war.

In 1833 the island was, with Antigua, and the other Leeward Islands, formed into a general Government, under a Governor-in-Chief resident in Antigua, and a Lieutenant-Governor appointed to reside on the spot. Since then (in 1872) the Leeward Islands have been federated into one colony, with one Governor and one legislature. Each island is locally governed by a President.

By an existing Act, the Legislature of the island is composed of the Lieutenant-Governor (now the President), and a Legislative Assembly of seven elected by the people, and seven nominees of the Crown. The former qualifications of candidates and electors in the Assembly have been repealed, and the following substituted, viz.:—

To be a CANDIDATE, a seisin of fifty acres in one parish, with a building thereon worth to be rented, if in Roseau, £10 per annum—or a lot in one parish, and buildings thereon worth to be rented, if in Roseau or Portsmouth, £23 per annum—or a house and lot in Roseau or Portsmouth worth £20 per annum—or a rental or leases in possession of fifty acres, with a building thereon, worth (if in Roseau) £25 per annum, the term to be for five years, two of which unexpired—or a rental in possession of a house and lot in Roseau or Portsmouth worth £30 per annum—or a payment of tax on an income of £150 per annum or of assessed taxes during the year preceding of not less than £3 13s. per annum.

The qualification of a voter

A seisin of ten acres—of a house and lot thereon worth £1 per annum—or a rental or leases in possession of twenty acres (being freehold, or otherwise held by the Crown or a less estate) with a building thereon worth to be rented, if in Roseau, £1 per annum, term to be for not less than five years, two of which unexpired—or a rental of a house and lot in a parish of £8 per annum—or a payment of assessed taxes during the year of not less than £1 5s.

The seisin may be in fee simple, fee tail for life, or in right of wife, or a trustee or mortgagee in possession.

The President sits as President of the Legislative Assembly, and the officers are chosen by the members with the approval of the Executive. There are two Legislative Councils in each year, commencing respectively in the months of January and July, these sessions being terminable at any time by prorogation. Public offices whose salaries are under £100 are filled up by the Administration in Antigua immediately those under £200 are subject to the approval of the Right Honourable the Secretary of State. Situations above £200 are left to the Secretary of State, but are in the meantime filled by the Governor, by whom other useful information under this head we refer to the "Colonial List," annually published by the officials at "Downing Street," to which subscribers are

The extent of the island is estimated at 186,426 acres, or 290 square miles, but only a small portion is cultivated, and most of it is uncultivable. It abounds in rivers and rivulets, and offers great facility of procuring the means of life, and abounding as it does in fishes of the sea and birds of the field, mountain crabs, crabs, and game, all nutrition is unrivalled.

The following "quotations" from a topographical sketch of the island is from the very correct pen of our principal resident physician, the Honourable Dr. Imray, who takes much interest in the development of the "physical peculiarities," and the "hidden (botanical) treasures" of the place, as those who read the scientific reports of the directors of the invaluable Kew Gardens must have perceived.

The sketch itself originally appeared as the introductory observations of a medical contribution by the doctor to the Edinburgh Medical and Surgical Journal, 1848.

"Viewed from the sea, the island has a singularly bold and magnificent appearance. A dark irregular mass of lofty mountains rises abruptly from the sea, as if suddenly upheaved from the deep by some mighty convulsion of nature. The rugged grandeur of the island is exhibited in nearer approach by the mantle of green that covers the surface, from the sea margin to the tops of the high mountains. In sailing along the coast, the sunlit surfaces of deep ravines with over-hanging cliffs and lofty wooded mountain form a succession of views exceeding beauty and magnificence."

"The coasts of the island, for the most part bold and rocky, are here and there indented by deep bays. On the windward side, high ranges of cliffs, broken at intervals by ravines and valleys, rise precipitously from the water's edge."

"The European visitor is struck with the luxuriance of vegetation that everywhere meets his eye. Not only are the precipices fringed with trees and shrubs, but along the face of the cliffs are seen growing many different kinds of plants, and even trees are observed shooting, as it were, from the bare rock, and sending out their roots in all directions in search of rents and crevices, into which they drive for the purpose of finding nourishment. Wherever ground, the smallest portion of soil can collect, there some form of vegetable life is met with."

"The highest range of mountains runs in the centre of the island in the direction of north to south. From this, smaller ranges of mountains pass down to the coast on each side, being intersected by valleys and deep ravines, narrow and winding at first, but opening out towards the coast."

"The formation of the island is volcanic. The cliffs near many places along the coast, beds of coral are found lying above the sea level. There are many volcanic openings visible parts of the island. Around all of these that I have seen are found large accumulations of sulphur. This substance is not white, but creates quantities of smoke at the extremity of the island. In a deep and confined valley, where there are several volcanic fissures, Near most of these openings, springs of hot water issue from crevices and in the Rasan valley they boil up in the bed of the river.

* * * * * From the mountainous nature of the country abundance of rain falls, and in the bottom of almost every valley there is a clear running stream fed by many tributaries.

* * * * * The whole face of the island, except where it is cleared by cultivation, is covered with forests. In some of the valleys of the forest, trees attain an enormous height and size, their stately massive trunks, rising from the ground like huge columns, excite the wonder and admiration of the beholder. The soil differs in quality in different districts, but it is everywhere sterile in the low-lying grounds, and a short way up the sides of the mountain. Still higher up, a red or yellow soil is generally found, covered by a thin stratum of vegetable mould. A sub-stratum of clay is, however, very common throughout the whole island.

* * * * * Of the surface of the country generally, but a small portion in cultivation, not more than a third part. The sugar plantations are chiefly situated in the valleys near the coast, where the soil is very productive. The mountain bordering on the sea round the whole island were of course covered with the plantations of coffee which then formed the staple export of the colony. About eighteen years ago there appeared on the tree's bright, which has completely ruined these properties—not much more coffee being now produced than is required for the consumption of the inhabitants—of the colony.

* * * * * On the windward side of the island the trade breeze is generally regular and steady. The atmospheric current is interrupted by the high central range of mountains, and in consequence, there are frequent calms on the leeward coast, with occasional gusts of wind ruffling down the ravines and valleys with much force.

"The mountains of this island are the highest in the whole range of the Lesser Antilles, the highest peak of Monte Diablo reaching the height of 5,114 feet. I am not aware that its summit has ever been scaled, though the attempt has been made." One of the highest mountains, at a short distance from the town, and another in the centre of the island, have been ascended.

"To gain the summit of any of the higher mountains is a task by no means easily accomplished, for they rise so abruptly as only to be accessible by following the course of some steep ridge. I have twice ascended the Chulabon Mountain (not far from Roseau), which is 4,500 feet high. Gradually, as the ascent is made, the character of the vegetation alters, and the noble forest trees shrink into small shrubs. Still, wherever the eye reaches all is green, unless it be where dark gray masses of rock project from the mountain sides, or a bright red surface is left by some a landslide of earth that has been recently separated by the heavy rains, and has fallen into the ravine below. When the traveller has at length reached the highest peak, he is rewarded for his toilsome ascent by a prospect of surpassing loneliness and grandeur. The sublimity of Alpine scenery is combined with the verdure and luxuriant vegetation of the tropics. On one side the spectator looks down on the country below as on a map; on the other, mountains stretch away beyond mountains, some shooting up in isolated peaks to the skies others sloping in undulating ridges to the sea-shore. The mountain sides brilliantly lighted up by the rays of the sun, form a strong contrast with the dark masses of shadow thrown on the deep ravines beyond. The snowy-looking clouds, as they float along, continually vary the light and shade, while every tint of green is beautifully blended from the deep shade of the primitive forest to the light, lively hue of the cultivated cane-field. The air that is breathed is pure, and uncontaminated by the causes of disease that abound along the sea margin, or lurk in the recesses of the ravines and valleys.

"The island still awaits the investigations of the geologist; and to those who take pleasure in botanical pursuits there is a rich and varied field, which has never been fully explored.* The woods of the country are very valuable, and of many different kinds. The wild animals and birds are very few in number, but there is ample room for the researches of the entomologist, as the insect tribes are very numerous.

"Though the temperature at some seasons is high during the day, and the atmosphere close and sultry, the nights are invariably cool, the neighbouring high mountains sending down their refreshing breezes as the sun sets.

"The average temperature in Roseau for each month, taking over a period of five years is—mean annual temperature 79.40. The average maximum is 83.93, and the minimum 74.88. The mean temperature near the coast is about the same as in the other islands, but the minimum range is considerably under most of them.

"The subjoined table is interesting, as showing the great difference in temperature at a short distance from the shore, not more in a straight line than a mile and a-half, and at a height of only 1,400 feet, viz., Gomer, the property of the estate of the late Mr. F. W. Stewart.

Max.	Min.	Mean.	Ranges from	To
General mean—77.33	69.42	73.39	79.75	68.83.

"It will be seen from this table that the mean temperature at 1,400 feet above the sea level, is lowered six degrees; Within the tropics, the difference in the range of the thermometer exerts a most material influence in point of salubrity.

"The division of the year is into the wet and dry seasons, though rain falls at all times of the year. The difference is, that a much greater quantity falls in the rainy or hurricane season, as it is more commonly called (beginning in the latter part of July and ending in October), than at any period of the year. By the register kept in the garrison at Morne Bruce, it appears that, from April 1846, to April, 1847, 68 inches of rain fell, and during the succeeding year 73 inches.

* I have sent several collections of dried plants to Sir William Hooker, gathered chiefly in one part of the island. Among these, many rare, and some new, plants have been discovered by that distinguished botanist.

+ At "Bona Vista," Mr. Attorney-General Blane's estate, 3,700 feet above the sea, the average temperature is 10 degrees lower.—Editor.

"Vegetation is hurried on with extraordinary rapidity by the heat and light and continual supply of moisture; but decay is equally rapid. In these countries, indeed, the destructive process that is in operation everywhere goes on with an energy and activity unknown in temperate climates. The heavy rains, followed by intense heat and high winds, act upon the cliffs, and continually detach stones and large fragments of the rock. Where the roads lead under these cliffs, it is dangerous to pass during or after heavy rain. Landslips are constantly happening in all parts of the island. The mountain slopes are washed by the floods of rain in the hurricane season, and the clear sparkling streamlet becomes all at once a turbid impetuous torrent, dashing down to the bottom of the ravine to join the river below, which rolls on to the sea loaded with immense quantities of earth, vegetable and animal matter, and the trunks of trees; and sometimes large stones are carried along its bed by the force of the torrent. The ocean is tinged for miles out by the red earthy matter, and the debris often is washed up by the waves, and strewed along the coasts. Nature, indeed, in these islands, assumes her most terrible as well as her most beautiful forms, for what visitations can be more appalling than the earthquake and the hurricane?—the one shaking down cities in a few minutes, and burying their miserable inhabitants in the ruins; the other sweeping with its destructive blast across the face of the land, and leaving only desolation and mud behind.

"The whole surface of the island being so irregular, there is comparatively very little marshy land. The only morass of any extent is near the fortress of Prince Rupert, and in consequence the district in the neighbourhood is very unhealthy.

"The population by the census taken in 1844 amounted to 22,964.* The majority of people reside on or near the sugar estates, or in detached huts and villages along the coast; though many are located on the abandoned coffee estates in the mountains, or on the Crown lands. As may be supposed from the nature of the country, the climate varies much both in point of temperature and salubrity. One or two limited portions of the island, but chiefly around the marsh of Prince Rupert, are unhealthy, and have given the island a general character for insalubrity that it by no means deserves. Did sufficient data exist to furnish a fair statement of the vital statistics of all our

West Indian colonies, I doubt not that Dominica would take a rank far above that which it now holds. It is certainly healthier than Tobago, St. Lucia, and many parts of Jamaica, on general, if not superior, to Trinidad and Demerara in this respect. The general healthiness of a country can scarcely be judged of by the prevalence of sickness in one or two limited localities. The climate of England might thus be called unhealthy, because fever abounds in the fens of Lincolnshire. The statistics of the garrison during the last ten years will, I have no doubt, show that the mortality has been comparatively small from the common endemic disease of this island. The troops have suffered occasionally from yellow fever, but this type of fever prevails at times at Dominica in common with all the West Indian colonies. The mounting of guards and other duties performed by the black troops, the substitution of rations of fresh meat for salt beef and pork, and the greater attention paid to the water drank by the men, have, it may be presumed, done much to diminish the mortality among the white soldiers from dysentery, which, in truth, is the most fatal disease in the country.

"As in all these islands, there is a less amount of sickness in general on the windward than the leeward coasts, and the mountain districts throughout the whole island are remarkable for salubrity. No other British West Indian colony possesses the same advantage in this respect, for an hour's ride will take the debilitated invalid from the hot, sultry atmosphere of the coast to the cool, invigorating air of the mountains. The elevation above the sea level, and the difference in temperature of six or eight degrees, give altogether a different climate. Health returns with almost every breath that is inhaled. The change of climate and temperature is felt much more keenly than when the system is strong and vigorous; and the alteration for the better, even within a short period, is often very striking."

READING ROOMS.

(ESTABLISHED 1837.)

Many of the English Periodicals and Newspapers, including the Times and Standard, and some of the Colonial papers, are taken in, and the establishment forms a very useful and agreeable place for Intellectual recreation and commercial statistics, and is highly serviceable to strangers. Subscription, payable monthly in advance, £3.

The rooms were closed in 1873 for the want of funds, but reopened in 1874. The following are the office-holders:—

Chairman.—His Honour C. M. Edridge.

Treasurer.—W. W. Trail, Esq.

Secretary.—A. R. Lothart, Esq.

Chairman.

W. W. Trail, Esq., Dr. H. A. A. Nicholls, J. Fiddle, Esq., P. P. Lutuchs, Esq., A. R. Lockhart, Esq., J. S. Fiddle, Esq., and W. Compton, Esq.

There is some design of making the rooms the nucleus of a Public Library—an institution much needed in the Island.

VICTORIA ORPHAN ASYLUM.

(Roman Catholic)

This is an establishment under the direction of the religious Ladies (Sisters of Charity) of the Convent of Notre Dame de Bon Port, Roseau, wherein orphan girls are lodged, boarded, clothed and educated. Day School being kept on the premises. The girls are also trained to work, and placed in domestic service as occasion offers. The building, neat and substantial edifice was erected by subscriptions aided by a grant from the Legislature.

POOR RELIEF.

Within the year 1858, a new system was established by [] under which "poor relief is the rule, and outdoor the exception." Several of the Soldiers' Barracks at Morne Bruce [] were converted into a Poor House establishment, placed under the direction of a Board of Poor Law Guardians appointed by the Governor. Every poor person in the Presidency approved of as such by the Guardians, and having no contagious disease, is eligible to be there lodged, fed and clothed, medical attendance and medicine being also provided at the public expense. The Medical Attendant is Dr. Keelan, and a Master and Matron reside on the premises.

CENSUS 1871.

The Census taken on the 27th of November, 1871, showed a total population for the Presidency of Dominica of 27,178, against 25,065 in 1860, the increase being 2,113, or 8·43 per cent., for the eleven years. The number of males and females in 1860 were respectively 11,896 and 13,235, and in 1871, 12,737 and 14,441. The males have consequently increased by 907, or 7·6 per cent., and the females by 1,206, or 9·11 per cent.

The population of the town of Roseau was 4,165 in 1860, and in 1871, 4,897, showing an increase of 532, or 12·77 per cent.

The number of people living in the country districts was 28,481, against 20,900 in 1860, the increase being 1,581, or 7·56 per cent. There was an increase more or less marked in all the Wards except those of St. Paul and St. Patrick South, and in one St. David. The increase was as high as 50·54 per cent.

The division of the people according to religious belief was as follows:—

Church of England ..	886	Moravian	14
Roman Catholic ..	24,012	Unitarian	8
Wesleyan Methodist ..	2,256

According to civil condition, there were:—

Married	6,171	Widows	1,107
Unmarried	19,688	Widowers	812

There were 309 persons living in public institutions, of whom 171 were males and 139 females. The birth places of the people showed 25,962 born in the Presidency, and 1,216 born elsewhere, viz.:—

In Europe	55	In India	24
Africa	297	Brit. N. America	1
British W. Indies	358	United States	2
Foreign do.	457	South America	1
Madeira	11	Total	1,216

The number of infant people was 38, of whom 42 were males and 44 females.

The number of people engaged in Agriculture, Land and other Pursuits connected therewith was 11,117, of whom 10,981 were Labourers, 713 peasant proprietors, 224 planters, 78 managers and overseers, 8 ploughmen, and 13 stock-keepers.

The number of people engaged in Commerce was 113. Under the head Official there were 32 public officers, and 33 policemen and rural constables. Under the head Professional, there were—Clergymen, 14, Friars 2, Nuns 11, Medical men 3, Druggists 4, Barnstafers 2, School Teachers 49.

People to the number of 1,971 were returned as engaged in domestic pursuits, but the number included paid servants, as well as the wives of working men attending to the household duties of homes where no servants are employed.

Of the non-productive portion of the community, there were 295 paupers and orphans, 32 prisoners, 9,592 children under age, and people unoccupied, or living on their incomes.

The population of the island is now 29,000.

INFIRMARY.

This is an institution for the relief of the sick poor, situated in Hillsboro-street. Formerly, under the direction of the Anglican Rector for the time being, the management was, in 1874, under an Act of the local Legislature, assumed by the Government. Admission to the Infirmary is obtained by means of an order from the Medical Attendant, Dr. Inray, who receives a salary from Government. There are a Treasurer, a Matron, and a Dispenser attached to the institution. An annual grant is voted by the Legislature for its support, and it is also aided by private subscriptions.

CROWN LANDS.

Under the head of "Local Notes" (p. 23), we have explained that upon the peace of 1803, between England and France, by which Dominica was ceded to Great Britain, Commissioners were sent out to survey and sell all the lands. Reference is made in the records of the day, some of which are preserved in the Colonial Registrar's Office in Roseau, to a Royal Proclamation, issued at St. James by advice of the Privy Council, bearing date the 26th March, 1764, as containing the necessary powers and directions for an immediate survey, and division into parishes and districts, &c., of such of the islands, namely, St. Vincent, Grenada, Tobago, and Dominica (then forming one general government), as had not been previously surveyed and divided.

The first sitting of the Commissioners, according to the "Sales Book," still preserved in the Colonial Registrar's Office, took place on the 25th of June, 1795.

The mode adopted by the Commissioners at their public sales of the Crown lands was this:—The highest bidder was declared by them the purchaser, upon his paying, at the close of the sale, 20 per cent. on the proceeds, securing payment of the balance in the manner following: 10 per cent. per annum on the whole of the purchase-money for the first two years, until the whole amount was liquidated.

The purchaser, having complied with these conditions, received from the Commissioners what was termed a "Bill of Sale and Certificate," which upon presentation to the Governor, was a guarantee to him to attach his signature and the Great Seal of the island to a conveyance from the Crown of the lot purchased.

There were various stipulations and conditions contained in grants from the Crown at this period; amongst others were the forfeiture of the land purchased in the event of the non-payment of the instalments; a fine of 15 per acre for the lands remaining uncleared after a certain prescribed date, dependent upon a proportion fixed by the Commissioners, varying according to the size of the lot. Several of the lots were re-sold by the Commissioners, having been forfeited to the Crown by reason of the non-compliance with the stipulations in the grants. Numerous leases granted to the French inhabitants were afterwards converted into fee simple by successive Governors.

The Commissioners closed their sales about 1774, as we have it in our "Local Notes," realizing the sum of £312,092 11s. 1d. sterling; and from that date the Governor in Council used to grant the Crown lands upon petition, accompanied by a diagram under the hand of the Surveyor-General (prepared at the expense of the applicant), setting forth the location, boundaries, &c. The fees incident to these grants were considerable, and evidently were intended to supplement the Governor's salary, which was paid by the island Treasury.

In 1836 appeared the Circular Despatch of Lord Glenelg, Secretary of State for the Colonies, calling for information respecting the Crown lands of the island, which contains important dicta as to the probable effects on the "interests of society," after the efflux of the apprenticeship system, should the Crown lands fall into the possession of individuals not possessing a proprietary title to them, or be even purchased by "persons without capital" to cultivate them. Each Governor was requested to submit in detail the arrangements best calculated to carry out the views of Her Majesty's Government in the colony under his care. "One general regulation, however" (observes his lordship), "I am prepared immediately to enforce that in future no Crown land shall be disposed of to private individuals otherwise than by public sale; a minimum price being fixed, but this price not to be accepted until the proprietor notice it shall appear that no one is prepared to offer more; the number of bidders being in all cases entitled to the preference.

Per cent upon the whole purchase-money to be laid down at the time of the sale, and previously to possession, being granted.

* * * * *

"The object is not to force the cultivation of the present staples by depriving the negroes of every other resource for subsistence, but merely to condense and keep together the population in such a manner that it may always contain a due proportion of labourers. When that is the case the most profitable produce will always afford the highest wages, and the highest wages will always draw the highest supply of labour. To discourage this extension of cultivation, or to confine it to any particular field, is by no means desirable, and some security should, if possible, be taken, that all the land which is cultivated at all shall be cultivated well, and the maximum price of land therefore shall be high enough to leave a considerable portion of the population unemployed, until they have saved some capital out of the wages of their industry, and let the same find elsewhere enough to encourage such savings by making the possession of land a reasonable object of ambition to all."

In Dominica this circular was referred by Dr. Goveas, to one of our able men, the late Mr. Finley, the Surveyor-General, and induced from his experience pen that masterly State paper, which appears in the Minutes of the Assembly of 21st March, 1806 extracts from which are published in Abbot Somers Martin's large work entitled "The Colonies of the British Empire." The following passages are extracted from it:

"Accurate data by which the earlier admeasurement of land in the island was obtained have hitherto escaped my research, but I cannot say with any certainty in estimating the territorial surface of 300 square miles, on 10,000 acres. Deducing a quarter for barren, incapable, or mountainous land, there remain 144,000 acres capable of being cultivated, of which quantity, not more than 30,000 are, at present, even in nominal cultivation, leaving more than half the whole surface of the island, partly abandoned by former settlers, but the greater proportion in its original state of undenuded forest. The number of slaves in labour on the 1st August, 1803, was 10,000, and supposing the whole of these apprentices in their future condition of complete emancipation should still continue cultivators of the soil, it must be evident that their physical exertions would be inadequate to extend the cultivation much beyond its present limits. But the interior of the island, inaccessible for want of communication to the browns of the staple productions, presents to the poorer class of labourers temptations such as were foreseen by Lord Glenelg, and which to persons of their habits would prove almost irresistible—a fine virgin soil, woods totally free from any poisonous reptiles, filled with mountain cabbage-trees, wild palms, and abounding with wild animals and birds suitable for food, from the peculiar formation of our mountainous ridges, and the very small number of free persons at all acquainted with the interior, it would be very difficult to dislodge them from the enjoyment of those whose migration habits would possibly lead them to select the most remote parts for their abodes."

After a lapse of twelve years regulations suggested and prepared by the Attorney-General, Mr. Lloyd, were adopted and published by Lieut.-Governor McDonald bearing date 30th June, 1846. These have been in force with occasional modifications until recently revised and improved by Lieut.-Governor Freeling, who in this intricate task has commanded and elicited the useful co-operation of his officers in this department. These regulations are, in substance, as follows:—

"Crown lands, including village lots and tribal locations, are to be sold in lots of not less than 40 acres &c. a minimum price of £1. Applicants at the time of their application are to make a deposit of 5s. per acre for expense of survey and, after survey, the land is to be advertised, at the expense of the applicant, in the Official Gazette and island newspapers. At the expiration of one calendar month, if no objection is raised, the land will be sold—by auction if any other than the original applicant shall desire to bid for it. Ten per cent of the price to be paid down, and the balance within one month. If the land is bought by any but the original applicant, his deposit and expenses to be repaid to him."

"Village lots and the 'Three Chains' to be sold on the same conditions, but the former at an upset price of 5 dollars per 1,000 superficial feet, the latter at 6s. 8d. per chain."

"Crown lands held on Lease may be converted into a free-hold tenure on payment of a sum not exceeding 5s. per acre." The Governor's fee on signing a grant is now 8s. only, and is placed to the credit of the Presidency.

The Attorney-General receives a fee of One Guinea for perusing and approving, where he is not employed by the purchaser to prepare the grant, or a total of 10 dollars effective, where he is so employed. The Surveyor-General's general charge is 5s. an acre. The Casual Receiver is paid by the Crown 10 per cent. on the amount of all purchases.

SQUATTING.

Not a few large tracts of fruitful land in the interior belonging to the Crown are still, irrespective of the law of meum and tuum, cultivated by families of the labouring class, some of whom are working at the same time for wages on neighbouring estates, and by small planters who have squatted thereon for years. Occasionally the Surveyor-General and the Casual Receiver visit these localities and warn the people of the consequence, and the result is an occasional application to purchase according to the regulations for the purpose. But long the provisions of the "Summary Pleasent Act" must be carried out against several, notwithstanding the difficulty to keep anything like a guard against clandestine re-invasion of these mountains and valleys afterwards. By a trespass Act recently passed "fine or imprisonment may be awarded against a squatter, in addition to the simple order for his ejectment. There is a less discreditable species of "squatting" also prevalent here, viz., where lands have become liable to be escheated, through failure of heirs of the last owner. When the cases are discovered, and the lands are worth the outlay, the powers of the Escheat Court are set in motion by the Attorney-General, and the parties in possession (generally natural relations of the deceased proprietors) then make out a case for the benevolence of the Lords of the Treasury, backed by the Local Executive, after the legal investiture by the Crown has taken place.

ROADS.

The mountainous character of the island and its numerous rivers necessarily render travelling extremely difficult and tedious, whilst the keeping of the roads around and across the island even in fair repair is effected only at a great outlay. The public roads at present existing are the same as those laid down by an Act of the island passed 21st September, 1808, and have been the subject of various legislative enactments dating back more than one hundred years. The Act of 1765 repeals previous Acts. In 1775 public ferries were established over the River Thames (Layou) and the Indian River. By the Act of 1870 the management of the roads was vested in five Commissioners appointed by the Governor, and a money payment of 2s. for every male and 1s. 4d. for every female once in every four months is allowed to be paid in lieu of the manual labour formerly required. The boon thus afforded has been almost universally accepted by the population. In 1870 the Governor was made Chairman of the Board. The Act of 1874 abolished the Board, whose authorities and functions are now divided by the Inspector, Sub-Inspectors, and Magistrates, acting under the President.

The peculiarly rugged and tortuous character of the island roads renders it impossible to form any correct estimate of distance; it is therefore usual to calculate it according to the time occupied in performing it, and the following memoranda will furnish a fair idea of the time required to travel to the principal points of the island, viz.—

PASSPORTS.

Passports are required by the French Governor to be produced by all persons landing in Martinique, Guadalupe, and other French colonies. To obtain them, British subjects leaving Dominica for these places should make personal application at the Colonial Registrar's Office on the day before they are required. Fee 1s.

CHRONOLOGICAL NOTES OF DOMINICA.

- 1493—On Sunday, the 3rd November, Christopher Columbus first saw this island, and called it Dominica, from its being discovered on the Lord's Day.
 1504—June 3rd. The fleet of Pedro Arias, from San Lucar, arrived at Dominica, where it remained four days, taking in wood and water.
 1520—To the licentiate Antonio Serrano, was given power of Governor of Dominica and many other islands.
 1568—May 27th. Several English ships touched at Dominica, and trafficked with the natives.
 1585—May 7th. Sir E. Granville, with an English fleet, touched at Dominica.
 1590—Mr. White, on his fifth voyage to the West Indies, anchored at Dominica, and trafficked with the natives.
 1592—Two English ships arrived at Dominica, and captured a slave ship, with 270 negroes on board.
 1595—May 8th. An English fleet touched at Dominica, and remained till the 14th, refreshing the crews.
 1596—May 23rd. The Earl of Cumberland arrived here, and remained till 1st June.
 1606—August 12th. Captain Chalons, of the ship Richard, passing Dominica, took on board a Spanish Friar, who had been sixteen months a slave to the Charaibs.
 1607—Some English ships touched at Dominica, and trafficked with the natives.
 1632—At the commencement of this century, a few French settlers arrived at Dominica, and were well received by the natives.
 1635—The Charaibs of this island joined those of St. Vincent, and attacked the French at Martinique.

- 1639—M. Du Parquet, the French Governor of Martinique, in passing the island, was fired at by the Charaibs, but no war ensued.
 1640—An English ship, becalmed off Dominica, tried to carry off some of the Charaibs, who, in revenge, attacked the English colony of St. Lucia, and laid all waste with fire and sword.
 September 15th. M. Aubre, Governor of Martinique, agreed with the Charaibs of Dominica to be on terms of peace with them, and kept his promise.
 1653—In revenge of an injury they had sustained, the Charaibs of Dominica attacked and killed all the French at the Island of Marigalante, and were shortly after themselves attacked and defeated by some French, who came to Dominica for that purpose.
 1660—March 31st. By Treaty it was agreed that this island and St. Vincent should be given up to the Charaibs.
 1666—Col. T. Warner, the Charaib Governor of Dominica, taken by the French and put in irons.
 The Charaibs of the island joined those of St. Vincent, and made war on the English settlements.
 1667—On the 9th of December, Lord Willoughby procured the release of Col. T. Warner, and re-instated him in the government of the Charaibs of Dominica.
 1668—Lord Willoughby established peace with the Charaibs of the island, through the medium of Col. Warner, in the month of February.
 1673—King Charles, by a new Commission, appointed Lord Willoughby Governor of Dominica and some other islands.
 1675—Lord Willoughby died, and was succeeded by Sir J. Atkins. Col. T. Warner, the Lieut.-Governor of Dominica, died also.
 1692—Dominica contained 933 Charaibs and 349 French, occupying the part of the coast which had been abandoned by the natives, and which they cultivated by the aid of 23 free coloured people and 33 slaves.
 1731—The English and French Kings issued orders to the respective Governors of Barbados and Martinique that the Island of Dominica should be evacuated by the French and English inhabitants, and left in the entire possession of the Charaibs.

- 1740—A fleet from England, commanded by Sir Charles Ogle, touched at Dominica on 20th December. Lord Cathcart, General of the land forces, died here of dysentery.
- 1748—October 7th. By the treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, Dominica was declared a neutral island belonging to the Charaibs.
- 1759—Guadalupe taken by the English, and many of the inhabitants, by the Treaty of Capitulation, sent to Dominica. Roseau, the capital, much improved, the population increased, and a French Governor appointed. The Griotte, man-of-war, Captain Taylor, landed at Roseau to demand an English schooner which had been taken by a French privateer, which was under the guns of the town; the Governor refused, when Captain Taylor boarded and destroyed the privateer, and dismounted some of the guns from the battery.
- 1761—June 6th. Sir James Douglas and Lord Rollo took the island from the French by assault. The inhabitants were to receive protection during the King's pleasure, and the Charaibs to deliver up their arms to the English.
- 1763—Feb. 10th. By Article 9 of the Treaty of Peace between England and France, the island was ceded in full right to Great Britain.
- October 8th. Robert Melville, Esq., appointed Governor. The island disposed of in allotments to British subjects; only 10,541 acres left to the French inhabitants, then 343 in number, for the cultivation of coffee.
- 1764—In March, His Majesty's lands were put up for sale, with the exception of a few small districts.
- 1765—This year a hurricane and several violent shocks of earthquake were felt in April and May.
- 1766—The population was returned at 2,020 white and 3,496 slaves. By an Act of Parliament this colony was made a free port. The Act revoked shortly after.
- 1768—March 8th. Sir W. Young, Bart., appointed Lieut.-Governor.
- 1772—Eighteen vessels driven ashore by a heavy gale of wind and lost.
- 1773—October 18th—W. Stewart, Esq., made Lieut.-Governor, vice Young, sent to Tobago. This year the exports from this island to England and North America amounted to £62,861 10s. 8d.
- The population returned at 3,350 whites, 750 free negroes, and 18,753 slaves.
